

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS COLLEGE OF LAW

2012 International Summer Program in U.S. Law

Modeled after the University of Illinois College of Law's successful LL.M. Advantage program that introduces students to the life and rigors of the U.S. law school, the Illinois International Summer Program in U.S. Law provides advanced undergraduate students with an introduction to U.S. legal education and life in the United States.

The three-week program will have 40-45 international students, who will:

- Receive focused study and practice of writing and research in U.S. law at a top U.S. law school.
- Develop career building and networking skills.
- Participate in small group interaction with U.S. law students to improve English conversation skills.
- Experience social, cultural, and political life in the U.S.

Courses will be taught by University of Illinois College of Law faculty – one of the most distinguished teaching and research law faculties in the United States. The faculty will be assisted by a team of College of Law students who will work with summer program participants in small groups to improve conversational and business language skills.

Recent graduates of the University of Illinois College of Law will serve as program assistants to oversee and supervise the non-classroom activities of summer program participants.
